

PERTH AND KINROSS COUNCIL*Perth Common Good Fund Committee*16 December 2015*Applications for Financial Assistance*Report by Director (Environment)

The report asks Perth Common Good Fund Committee to consider 21 applications for financial assistance.

1. BACKGROUND

- 1.1 Perth and Kinross Council owns land and property which forms part of the common good of the former burghs in Perth & Kinross and has a statutory duty in terms of section 15 of the Local Government etc. (Scotland ) Act 1994 to administer this land and property “having regard to the interests of the inhabitants” of those former burghs. This duty also applies to the administration of the associated common good funds.
- 1.2 The Common Good Funds have traditionally demonstrated their support to local residents and organisations by distributing grant. These grant awards allow individuals and local organisations to carry out a wide range of community based activities. For each application, the level of previous grant awarded is listed, but variances between years could be due to the numbers of participants. Retrospective applications are not accepted. However, if an application is received before the activities take place and cannot be considered at the following meeting because the papers have already been issued, the application will be considered at the following next meeting even if the activities have taken place between meetings. Therefore the Committee decision will only be known after the activities have taken place, and if the grant is not awarded, the applicant will have to fund the activities from its own funds.

At its last meeting, the Committee deferred the decision and asked for more information on existing Council service level agreement with the applicant and if the proposed activities were duplicating any activities already provided. The applicant indicated that no other Council funding is provided and therefore no agreement is in place.
- 2.52 Education & Children's Services (ECS) indicated that the applicant is affiliated to the Association of Christian Counsellors and as an authority we do not promote their teachings, but individual schools may choose to invite them in to deliver lessons alongside school staff. Lessons have always been offered free of charge. The applicant has indicated that lessons have already been booked by Perth High School, Perth Grammar and Crieff High School. ECS indicated that the lessons do not link with the Curriculum for Excellence Relationships, Sexual Health and Parenthood (RSHP) experiences and outcomes.
- 2.53 If the Hope Pregnancy Crisis Centre were not able to deliver in Perth and Kinross Council schools, teachers are more than capable of delivering this work. A new framework for RSHP 3-18 has been put together by a Tayside wide partnership including Dundee, Angus, Perth and Kinross Council and NHS. This has been rolled out into all our primary and secondary schools and work has been done with training for school staff, partners and parents. The programme has been met very positively both locally and nationally and fulfils all the requirements of RSHP within Curriculum for Excellence.
- 2.54 It is recommended that the Committee considers the additional information provided in making a decision on the application. If the Committee agrees to support the request, a grant of £2,000 can be awarded in line with the guidance (see Appendix 1 – Criteria 12). The grant will contribute to social inclusion.

Recommendation

Wednesday 23rd September

Dear Perth Common Good Fund,

I am writing to thank you for your generosity in helping me to fundraise for my year overseas with Project Trust. Your support meant that last August I was able to achieve my target and travel to Honduras to spend the year teaching.

For most of the year I taught Preparatoria which is the year before first grade and towards the end I got to teach first grade. This class of eighteen five year olds was a challenge at first but as I grew into the role of being a teacher so too did my love for them. I lived with a Honduran family while I was out there and they taught me so much about how important a strong family is. I have attached a copy of a short report on my year.

It has been the most incredible year of growing, learning and travelling and I wanted you to know that I am so grateful for your part in that.

Thank you,

Isobel Houston.

I remember it too. That excruciating moment when, desperately trying to get the attention of your teacher, arms aching and she's still not turning around: "Mum!" Suddenly the whole room is hushed and that crippling shrinking feeling before the whole classroom erupts with laughter. The only difference is that it was "Mami!" and it was me who had to quell the giggles. It suddenly seemed so long ago that it was me with the burning cheeks.

I decided to spend a year teaching in Honduras in the summer of my lower sixth when I went on a selection course on the island of Coll. From then until my departure in August 2014, I wrote, baked and chutnied my way to the fundraising target. It was hard work but it really made me invested in my year and when things got difficult I only had to think of all the friends and family who helped me get out there to make me carry on.

Arriving just days before the school year started meant that finding your feet was more a case of realising you were already running. I was teaching a gaggle of 18 five year olds in a class called Preparatoria, the year before first grade. It took a while to get my head around how to introduce the foreign concept of numbers and letters but with the help of countless songs, dances and of course Samuel David Ramos (the counting caterpillar beautifully named by my kids) we managed.

It was, to begin with the most testing thing I have ever had to do, who would have thought that controlling the daily ruckus during the hokey pokey, or getting them to sit still during circle time would obscure anything I had to do whilst at Coll. In all honesty, teaching did not come naturally to me and to start with these riotous little people who didn't speaking any English seemed to be a force that I had to control and caused me a lot of anxiety. However, as they got to know me better and as I grew to love them teaching became more of an instinct. I became more adventurous. We had themed days: pyjama party, come dressed as what you want to be when you grow up, crazy hat day and more. I also became much more creative and resourceful eating a lot of cornflakes so that I could make a maths machine and post office. We even put on a Billy goats gruff play (complete with homemade costumes!). I loved seeing their faces light up and hearing about them telling their parents about what we had been doing that day.

In April Project Trust decided to move our project. This meant new school, new grade, and new faces. It was extremely difficult to say goodbye to my Prepa kids especially after having such an amazing connection with them and at first I felt that I would never be able to have that bond with the next class. However, by then I had experience in the classroom and after stomping around singing "I am the music man, I come from far away and I can play.." at the tops of our voices I immediately felt lucky for being able to teach such a lively class. Teaching first grade meant that I could take everything that bit further. I loved organising lots of science experiments to celebrate earth day, we had exploding volcanoes, solar powered s'more ovens, and other shaving foam fun!

Teaching may not have come easily but this year has definitely confirmed the saying that 'life begins at the end of your comfort zone'. I learnt things from being a teacher that I feel very grateful for; patience, confidence, empathy and of course in Honduras flexibility!

I was living in a place called Siguatepeque, which was a mountain town in the centre of Honduras. Although relatively small it had a great community spirit that I took advantage of, getting involved with charity running races, the flower festival and a dance show. Through doing these extra events I met new people and was able to establish a group of friends in the running club and also in the cycling club. Weekends were always busy and we often travelled around Honduras. It is such a stunning landscape, extreme beauty in the scale of the mountains and lakes and intensity of colours. It's reputation in the media means that travellers avoid it. Whilst this is a great shame for the country's economy, for me it was part of the magic as it felt like a well kept secret, untrodden by swarms of tourists.

We lived humbly, using buckets for showers and cooking on the outside oven but after a couple of weeks I started to forget about the inconvenience of watching a pot of water boil as I realised how strong their family were and although it sounds a cliché, rich in so many other, more important ways. Living with a family was the best way into the culture of Honduras that I could have hoped for. For them, family is everything and they definitely taught me how important it is for your actions to reflect this. This meant that as soon as I arrived I became a sister and a daughter to them. This made being separated from my family so much more bearable. Living and working alongside people with a culture meant that I shared in the trials and tribulations of their life. Through this I developed empathy and in a world where we are increasingly joined up be it from the internet or having refugees in our homes this sense of one world and a better understanding of people I'm sure will help me to grow as a global citizen.
