

HEALTH WARNING

HIGH CONCENTRATIONS OF BLUE GREEN ALGAE HAVE BEEN KNOWN TO OCCUR IN THIS WATER BODY

MEMBERS OF THE PUBLIC AND THEIR ANIMALS SHOULD STAY OUT OF THE WATER WHEN BLOOMS ARE VISIBLE

- Avoid contact with scums or mats on the water's edge or banks.
- Contact your doctor if you experience any ill effects after any contact with the water or handling debris from the water's bank.
- The health risks from consuming fish from these waters is unknown. Toxins are known to particularly accumulate on the skin and in the organs of fish. Cooking does not remove the cyanotoxins from food products caught in these waters.

DO NOT LET ANIMALS DRINK THE WATER or LICK THEIR COATS AFTER SWIMMING.

- Do not let your dog play with debris on the shore or play in or near the water.
- Contact your vet immediately if animals show any signs of illness after being in or near the water.
